What Love Is.
Love is the center and circumference.
The common seat of all thine—In the bay
The sun sets, and the roses, and the leaves,
For all the life that have, or may be.

Love is as bitter as the drop of tea,
As green as leaves, as red as roses,
Love is as white as the lily, as white as the rose,
Love is as black as the raven, as black as the dove.

Love is in the crown that gilds the universe,
And nothing can equal its beauty.

Love is in the depths of the ocean, the sea,
The sun, the stars, the sky, the clouds, the clouds.

Love is in the heart that beats, the heart that beats,

Love is in the veins that pulse, the veins that pulse,

Love is in the eyes that look, the eyes that look,

Love is in the heart that beats, the heart that beats,

Love is in the veins that pulse, the veins that pulse,

Love is in the eyes that look, the eyes that look,

Love is in the heart that beats, the heart that beats,

South Weymouth Items.

—Oct. 27, Leland T. Powers, Fogg's Hall. The silk skirt that was stolen at the Weymouth Opera House was recovered quite a romantic story. It was owned by a young man in Hingham, who is a very good boy. It was taken from a room which contained a large number of boxes upon the different squares, which made it a bad place to search. The police officer concluded that she had stolen more than she had anticipated, and last Friday evening he was in Boston, containing the lost skirt. D. C. Cushing learned that it was shipped to her in this part of the town, who are confident that they can single out the person who took it. Steps were being taken to prevent a search warrant when the skirt was returned.

—Don't fail to attend the grand Democratic rally at Old Town Opera house next Monday night. See poster.

—It was learned that one of the four girls who were to sing at the school on account of her not keeping school at Children's Day at the Weymouth Opera House, was a girl from Boston, a young woman known in this village, and quite modest.

—A wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Henry Shaw on Union street, last Wednesday afternoon. The bride, a young woman, is a daughter of Mr. Bennett of Boston, a young man well known in this village, and quite modest.

—Fogg's Opera House will be filled next Tuesday night to hear the popular entertainer, Leland T. Powers, assisted by Weymouth's favorite contralto, Miss Ella Ward.

—Next Wednesday night will be Ladies' Night at the meeting of the Weymouth Night Club.

—The Norfolk Bicycle Club has formed, and will enter into a mineral troupe, and will give their first entertainment at Fogg's Opera House on the evening of Dec. 8.

—Grand Republican rally next Thursday evening.

—A lady of Central street who takes considerable interest in her home, has made in ten months, $60 all clear on twenty-five leas.

—Dr. Forrest and A. T. Barnard of Rockland have been engaged to speak at the annual meeting to be held on Saturday afternoon on a mile spin.

—Mr. George Riddle next Friday night.

—Harvest Sunday was observed at the Union church last Sunday. The front porch was filled with people, who were seated with vegetables, fruit, and yellow ears of corn, with an appropriate sermon. The organ and piano were absent, but the organist had provided a good barrel organ, and caused all to rejoice. A harvest concert took place in the evening.

—Mrs. Noah, of May Street, had the day marked for Hingham. Call. She is not at that place which is also the home of N. S. Mull, George Thayer, a brother of S. H. Mull.

—Capt. Stowers of this village sailed last Tuesday from Portland; the trip will be to Florida, whence he will return to Weymouth next Saturday.

—The first social party of the season by the Unitarian Society was held Friday night.

—A Calon Temperance service will be held in the Unitarian church next Sunday.

A Lady Inside

Of five minutes can have a perfect fitting Basque Pattern, saving cost of paper patterns and all time and labor lost in refitting by using the GREENWOOD Ready-Made • Waist • Lining.

In the use of these Waist Lining, one-half of the work in making a dress is done away with. Everything is simplified, and ladies, whether having dress-making done at home or elsewhere, can be sure of obtaining the latest and most correct principles, and a perfection in fit equal to the highest grade of custom cutting.

To insure satisfaction, every lining is tried on at our rooms, enabling ladies to see just what we offer. No waiting. Ladies before making their fall dresses will find it to their advantage to call and thereby secure the most perfect fit attainable.

Washington Letter.

Washington, Oct. 19, 1861.
Mr. Harrison seldom holds a special and alert reception that it is not attended by some of Washington's most gorgeous specimens of the Evans, Duke, and that given to the delegates of the Ecumenical Conference, which is to be held in the city. But the ones who attended in all the glory of their new fall livery now wish that they had remained away from that particular reception. They were completely eclipsed by the gorgoness of an English lay delegate to the conference, compared with whose brilliant and dazzling appearance, the most brilliant and distinguished of the Washington nobility, was the English Ambassador, Mr. Henry J. Parker-Atkinson, a lieutenant of the United States army, which was won by Lieut. Parker, who assisted Bishop Hurst in making the presentation to the President and Mr. Harrison, looked sombre when placed beside the clothes worn by this English Ambassador.

—It was a surprise to those who had respected Lieut. Gov. H. H. H. as a fair minded man, above the mere tricks of the politician, to find him treating the reference to free schools in the Democratic platform as if the word "public" was purposefully left out of it. Such an omission is intended to mislead the public, who are to be told that the platform of the party is that of the "free school" party, and the representative of the United States army was Mr. Henry J. Parker-Atkinson—probably he wears conspicuous clothes for the purpose of preventing the length of his name being noticed—who is a member of the British Parliament, and the government of which he represents, and the representative of the United States army was Mr. Henry J. Parker-Atkinson—probably he wears conspicuous clothes for the purpose of preventing the length of his name being noticed—who is a member of the British Parliament, and the government of which he represents, and the representative of the United States army was Mr. Henry J. Parker-Atkinson—probably he wears conspicuous clothes for the purpose of preventing the length of his name being noticed—who is a member of the British Parliament, and the government of which he represents, and the representative of the United States army was Mr. Henry J. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1850.

The political thermometer is about 100 in the village.

The voters of Massachusetts will decide November 3 whether they will continue to have their right to vote contingent upon the payment of $2.00.

To the independent voter, the Australian system is best. He can vote as he pleases, pay his party tickets at $2.00, and yet not be taxed any one knowing how he votes.

Will Weymouth go for Allen or for Russell? With a pleasant day and a full vote of the people, the result will be clear. The heavy registration Weymouth is likely to give Allen from 80 to 100 plurality.

Weymouth voters have good candidates for representatives on both sides of the political fence, and in a choice of the men only, it would be difficult to arrive at a decision. The voter should, however, consider the issues and principles of your choice and for the men who best represent them.

Don't forget, when this campaign is over, that the election is settled. It is at the primaries that the most important work is done. All voters should attend the primaries, and then, if you are in agreement with our candidates for delegates and for officers. By taking an active part in the primaries you can help to settle the fate of politics. Remember this for next year.

One of the most noteworthy facts to be derived from the figures of the last census is that the number of people in the town is more than twice as large as in the previous decade. It follows that the figures are correct, and that the increase has fallen off from one-half. It also appears that the colored population had not increased in the agricultural regions east of the Mississippi were stationary or declining.

We are not of the mind that it is a mistake to bring into this state such speakers as Mills of Texas, Crittenden, George, and others. The people of Weymouth and New England know all there is to know, or will have learned all there is to know, from the South, but we recognize the fact that there exists a prejudice to the minds of a great many people in the South, and that a good many of the men of the South are not in accordance with our principles.

Don't be a Democrat or a Republican because your friends are, or because your father was, but seek for reasons and good ones to support the party which you like best, and remember that the principles in which it stands are more important than the men.

At the Tremont Temple debate last Friday evening the honors seemed to be with the Republicans, but after a careful reading of the subject matter of the speeches fail to convince the reader that Gov. Russell had been an unworthy governor. In fact he had very little to criticize except that he had not treated several county fairs, and had not visited the state institutions as many times as did some former governors. The papers come out boldly and acknowledge that there is nothing to criticize him personally, but they oppose his reelection because of the effect it would have upon the issues and party policies without deserving personal vilification.

Will Assist the Voter.

We hope every voter will be fully informed in our columns this week that he may be able to vote intelligently. The discussions are able and strong and the topics are well chosen. The voter ought, after a careful perusal of this issue, to be enabled to make up his mind how to cast his vote.

The Largest Registration.

The following figures show what has been done in registration in the last few days:

Ward 1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.	7.	8.	9.	10.	11.	12.
1800.	1801.	25.	355.	750.	54.	558.	304.	13.	317.	25.	85.
200.	201.	28.	32.	50.	42.	45.	27.	13.	31.	27.	85.
2000.	2010.	300.	350.	550.	450.	500.	300.	150.	300.	250.	850.
2000.	2010.	300.	350.	550.	450.	500.	300.	150.	300.	250.	850.

This makes the largest registration in the state that Weymouth ever had. The registering places have been the skidblades. The battle will be fought at the polls.

So Wish the Voter.

On the whole, one of the most fully informed political discussions has ever witnessed, one could naturally ask, why is this interest, why is all this enthusiasm? Some say that "nothing but state issues are at stake," but such is not the fact. The discussion is on the issues on which the parties divide, the living issues of the hour, are as broad as the rock on which it is founded.

It is a question if Jefferson, Jackson, or any other man ever had a question, but what is right and best, for today, and the people differ, and honestly, upon the question. Most important, on the issues of the past, has great weight throughout the country, and her voice, so to speak, on Tuesday next, the battle will be fought for the best interests of the people.

The Representative Outlook.

Weymouth and Weymouth both went Democratic, and the former last week elected three Representatives. The Republicans enjoy the pleasure of the campaign, keeping among themselves and not one man seems to think that the state they seem to be solidly won for an earnest effort.

It will be seen that, that it is impossible to make any reliable prediction as to the result of the election, although it would be safe to say that the Republicans will win, at least with one, if not two, and the people differ, and honestly, upon the issues. Most important, on the issues of the past, has great weight throughout the country, and her voice, so to speak, on Tuesday next, the battle will be fought for the best interests of the people.

The Outlook for Governor.

In summing up the gubernatorial situation and the chances of both sides for success, it is a remarkable state of affairs that Massachusetts is a Republican state. Some, in off years, it has been Democratic by far, but never so many, and one would hardly expect that the state ticket would be beaten, in presidential years, and in the last few years, with the exception of last fall when the McKinley bill, the state has been strongly Republican.

Massachusetts must be then considered on the whole as a Republican state. On every occasion when the Democrats have elected a governor, the Republicans have done the same, and vice versa. The result of this is that, after the first few elections following as a matter of course, directly after the election, the party which has won the election from the Republicans puts forth by the Republicans a great opinion, that the state would probably give Allen a plenty of time to get a good name, and that the next year, when we think, D. will be a veritable, not again, Russell as a governor, but that the state deserves its publication in national affairs.

Will the Voters Get There?

With all the agitation upon the green political questions of the hour, with all the settling forth of the merit of the candidates, after all is will the voters be polled? Votes are an unknown and uncertain quantity, and the result is often a mystery.

In 1850 Weymouth cast 1,000 votes for Oliver Ames, and for W. E. Russell, 1,400. The result was a tie, and the casting places a large per cent. of the voters would be got out, but such had hardly been the case.

Will we predict, however, a vote in Weymouth exceeding 2,000 for next Tuesday, and a few more to mark the whole ballot? Then why not mark it all?

There is not an office on the list from the Governor down or from the Representative, but there is a tie, and the whole ballot, away for any office, may be your vote, that will elect or defeat, or leave a tie, and the casting places a large per cent. of the voters would be got out, but such had hardly been the case.

Will the ballot be cast by the voter, or the ballot box?

MARKING THE BALLOTS.

CROSS NOT. Mandatory — The infant of the Voter to be Taken of.

A circular issued by Secretary of State Olin lays down the following rules for electing officers:

1. The casting of ballots the primaries of law prescribe that a cross, X, shall be made by the voter in the appropriate column, in the case of a candidate for whom he can't decide, or for whom he has no strong aversion.

Wishes of all in Leaving Power.—U. S. Govt. Report, Aug. 17, 1902.

in an instant the indignant blood rushed to her face and throat. "It is madness," he cried. "I have not done it. I lifted his cap and advanced step, but her pains was only momentary.

With her head up, she went swiftly past him, noticing him no more than if he had been the tree against which he had leaned. With one stride he was beside her. "Will you accept my escort, Miss Beaten?" he asked contritely. "This would be a lonely place, and particularly unsafe in these unmettled times and at this hour."

"I seem infested with spies at any rate," she said, half smiling. "But do not be afraid to spy upon a woman."

In her uncontrollable excitement she had turned in the narrow pathway to confront him and her face shone in the dark.

"When you and your mother forced yourself upon us, Captain

Campbell, we accepted the fortunes of war as gracefully as we might,

and treated you, if not in the spirit at least in the letter, as our guests.

On the evening of the arrival of the Union troops at the homestead he had barely escaped being made a prisoner by reason of the fact that he had been forced to leave the vicinity without orders, hoping to be able to carry some information concerning the enemy to headquarters.

And all this time Glen's heart was torn by the fear of fire, of imagination, and the smothered state of the country, just before the close of the war, warranted in a great measure by hostile. He might be made a prisoner at any moment, or shot if he spied.

A night of the girl's life was spent in the humbleness of mind—never so far as I can tell, in the life of any man, as I can tell.

"Mummy," she said, "how did I get here?" "Why, why, life, chile, in case woman, and you were born, I was a little woman."

"And your brother, my poor child?"

"Oh! he got off nicely. In good spirits, and says we shall hear from him in a few days. I am not so bad, but I am not well.

Very well, I am not well."

The Old Colony Association of Universalists Meets at South Weymouth - Installation.

"It was not many years ago that there was a desire to have a church, but it seems to have been wonderfully revived," were the graphic words of Dr. E. A. Eaton, D. D., of the Old Colony Association of Universalists in the Second Universalist church, South Weymouth.

At 10 o'clock on Saturday evening, A. T. Thorne, a former pastor of the South Weymouth Society, in a conference meeting at the Institute, spoke.

At 10 o'clock there was a general hymn meeting, led by Rev. H. E. Cushman of Plymouth, who was secretary. A nondescript meeting, Rev. H. E. Cushman of Plymouth, was appointed to report a list of officers to be chosen later.

At 11 o'clock devotional services were conducted by Rev. A. Hammett of Weymouth.

The "Song of the Bible" was delivered by Rev. C. H. Puffer, its author.

The Weymouth Institute has now an auxiliary and a branch, and Wednesday night meetings are held on South Weymouth evenings, regular evening University lectures. These make quite a social and educational center. The first meeting, October 20, was a success, and the second, October 27, was a success.

At 11 o'clock the nominating committee presented their report, which was adopted, and the following officers were elected: Dr. A. Hammett, pastor; Dr. F. A. Puffer, secretary and treasurer; Rev. H. L. Atwood, executive committee; Howard H. Joy, president of the Weymouth Institute; Miss Mary O. Nash of Abington, trustee of the occasional sermon.

The list had been prepared by the ladies in the church.

At 11 o'clock the nominating committee presented their report, which was adopted, and the following officers were elected: Dr. A. Hammett, pastor; Dr. F. A. Puffer, secretary and treasurer; Rev. H. L. Atwood, executive committee; Howard H. Joy, president of the Weymouth Institute; Miss Mary O. Nash of Abington, trustee of the occasional sermon.

At 11 o'clock Rev. J. P. Hartig of North Carolina, a recent convert to the Universalist cause, spoke on "Mission Work: How to do it."

President D. F. Eaton offered the following resolution: "That we, the members of the church, as they are, do what we can to make such names to be inserted shall reach us in time for publication."
